Meet This Year's CITs!

It is always pleasing to see how excited potential CITs are when they are first notified of their official acceptance. The step from camper to counselor in training is a big one but we have every confidence in these young people and look forward to working with all of them.

From the Director

Emily, Nici, Tali and I will be in Atlanta from February 20-24 for the American Camp Association national conference. It is energizing to be surrounded by your peer professionals and to share with each other. Helping children reconnect with nature is a major topic track of the conference, as it is with a growing number of educators nationwide. I will represent Ohio as part of a panel discussion titled: Children and Nature, How Public Policy Decisions are Helping and Hurting Environmental Literacy. As a long time member of the ACAOhio board of directors, (now known as the Council of Leaders - got to love the consultants who get paid for these ideas...), my main role is as chair for legislative affairs. Beyond the directing of Falcon, part of my larger vision for camping is to help connect more schools, camps and health professionals in a collaborative effort of year round services. All of us have similar goals ---to help young people grow in meaningful and healthy ways--we just have some different ways to help them get there. Any parent or alumni in a professional field where they might be of assistance, please feel free to offer your thoughts. In the meantime, remember to tell your friends about Falcon and join us for the summer of 2012.

Nickers and Neighs

Snow is everywhere at camp and the fields have numerous hoof prints. In the spirit of the holidays, we have heard from some of our equine friends. Katie Selhorst and Emma Whisman have been showing. Katie showed at Chagrin Valley Farms in the lower jumping division, and took a couple 3rds and a 2nd. Emma continues to show at various disciplines, winning blues along the way.

Unfortunately, we had to retire Jake. Our wonderful paint gelding injured his neck. After reviewing the x-rays it was determined that as a youngster Jake took a bad fall, dislocating a portion of his neck. Somehow or other, he recently did the same - so for now Jake is a life sized lawn ornament!

While all of us are in school with our heads buried in books or i-phones, Dr. Tina has been stopping by to check on the herd that is at our farm to make sure everyone is healthy. Horses need to be checked 24/7, whether a horse resides outside or inside a stall. The horses appear to have grown a "Bigfoot" coat and greet Tom happily when he pulls up with their daily delicious round hay bales. Gracie, Diva and Ladybug keep the herd moving with Woody being the overseer gelding.

Exciting Updates

At the recent Ohio Camping Conference, Dave was surprised to receive the Buckeye Award, an extremely prestigious award saved for those with "outstanding service and leadership" in the camping world. I was proud to see Dave recognized for the efforts and hard work he puts into the industry, both toward our little corner of it at Falcon, and the greater ACA and beyond. Congratulations, Dave!
